Sunday 1st Message

By His Son

Heb 1:1-14

If you restore the gospel and live a life in accordance with the word, you are bound to receive answers. This means confessing the gospel daily, nourishing your inner self with relevant Bible verses, and applying the word you have received to your present reality. Application means making decisions based on that word whenever something happens or you need to make a choice. This is the path to meet the answer God has prepared and meet the person he has prepared. Through this, you will enjoy the blessing of meeting, the door to evangelism will open, and through that one person, the door to saving the region and world evangelism will open as well.

Listen to my words, and listen diligently. Don't just hear them; incline your ear, and come to me. Then your soul will live, you will eat what is good and delight in rich food. The answer to life lies here. The secret to allowing the gospel to work in the realities of your life is to receive the word and follow it. If no change has taken place within you through the gospel, it is because you have treated worship as a mere formality.

The reason is, in fact, this one thing alone. God is ready to pour his grace, but we are not ready to receive it. We must receive the word for the sake of evangelism as well. If your family has not yet heard the gospel and remains trapped in spiritual problems, you must naturally receive the word for their sake as well. The same goes for friends and relatives around you. I must pass on the word I have received.

When we share the gospel, we usually preach the way of salvation and engage in word movement through the gospel letters. That's rightful. Since it's the foundation, we must understand it. However, that's just the common ground. What I'm asking is: don't we need that one word God has prepared to touch a person's heart? It is this word that touches one's soul. This means we must pray for this word as well.

1. By His Son

1) Verse 1 says that God spoke by the prophets, and verse 2 says that he now speaks by his Son. And he continues to explain who that Son is by quoting from the Old Testament. Verse 2 says that he appointed him "heir of all things, through whom also he created the world". Verse 3 says that "He is the radiance of the glory of God and the exact imprint of his nature." It says that "he upholds the universe by the word of his power, After making purification for sins, he sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high".
2) In verse 4, he says that he is "much superior to angels", and in verse 5, he quotes Psalm 2:7, asking, "For to which of the angels did God every day, 'You are my Son, today I have begotten you'?" He also quotes 2 Samuel 7:14, asking, "Or again, 'I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son'?" In verse 6, quoting Psalm 97:7, he says that when he brings the firstborn into the world, all angels will worship him.
3) Furthermore, verse 7 quotes Psalm 104:4, stating that the Lord "makes his angels winds, and his ministers a flame of fire", while verse 8 quotes Psalm 45:6 and following, declaring that the Lord's throne endures forever and the scepter of unrighteousness is the scepter of his kingdom. Verse 10-12 quote Psalm 102:25, stating that the "Lord, laid the foundation of the earth and the heavens are the work of his hands". Yet, while these will perish and be changed like a garment, the Lord will remain, will be the same, and his years will have no end.

4) Verse 13 quotes Psalm 110:1, asking, “And to which of the angels has he ever said, ‘Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet’?” In this way, it explains the Son using these lengthy prophecies from the Old Testament. It is of the utmost importance to know the Son correctly, for our destiny depends on him, and the victory that frees us from curses and disasters is promised to him alone.
5) May you find the grace to enjoy all the blessings promised in Christ through quietly meditating upon the word.

2. Word

1) Verse 2 says that long ago, God spoke by the prophets but in these last days he has spoken by his Son. God needs nothing else; his word is all that is needed. He has always been this way, and he continues to do so today. There has never been an exception.
2) In Genesis 12, God called Abraham and made promises to him. All the accounts that follow describe the process by which these promises were fulfilled. After many trials, God finally gave him a son, just as he promised. The story of Abraham concludes in Genesis 22, after he offered a ram in place of his son.
3) Although Abraham lived for more than 50 years after that - long enough to have six more sons - the Bible no longer recounts his story. Instead, it concludes with the sacrifice of the ram, which symbolized his Son in today’s passage. Ultimately, the story God wanted to tell was about the ram that died in Isaac’s place, and it was through that ram that he spoke of the Son.
4) This principle applied not only to Abraham but to all the figures in the Bible. In 2 Timothy 4:1-2, Paul sternly commanded Timothy to carry out this word movement and in Titus 1:3, he stated at the proper time God’s word was manifested through the preaching of the gospel. This means that what God desires to accomplish through evangelism is the word. It means that people are brought to life only when the word is preached.
5) In Luke 1:2, Luke described those who wrote the Gospels as “ministers of the word”. Furthermore, when the Lord repelled the devil’s temptations, he simply quoted passages from the Old Testament. The Bible is not merely a collection of words; it is, from beginning to end, a record of the fulfillment of God’s word. This is why we must make a resolution once again and resolve.
6) Since God acts in accordance with the recorded word, we must allow his word to govern our fields. When God’s will and desire become the foundation of our lives and we follow the word he has given us, he will shape our lives to reflect the Bible and grant us the meetings he has prepared for us. Without such meetings, there can be no answer. And these must be the meeting God desires.
7) Meeting the person God has prepared was a blessing shared by all who followed the word. We hope to see this same testimony come to pass in our lives as well. This is where a life-changing transformation takes place, and it is the foundation of biblical evangelism. Since we cannot be witnesses without an answer, God will give us the answer he has prepared for us. We simply need to walk the right path. And that path is the word. It is said that what God did today through his Son is the word. If we pray, he will open the door for us.
