Sunday 1st Message

Consider Jesus

Heb 3:1-6

To humanity, which had fallen into Satan's deception and been cursed, God gave the word of promise, Genesis 3:15. He gave us worship so that we might experience this mystery. That is Genesis 3:21. If we continue this worship, what was promised in Gen 3:15 will manifest in that person's life: the serpent's head will be crushed, life will be restored, and destiny, curses, and disasters will be conquered. Through this, I save myself, my family, and those around me. This is the answer to life that God has given to humanity. No one knows humanity more thoroughly than God. God's knowledge of humanity is not merely accurate; with that single word alone, everything concerning humanity is settled.

This is the power of worship. Therefore, you cannot succeed in life if you fail at worship. You must participate in worship with a sincere heart, pray earnestly, and offer your worship wholeheartedly. Worship is more significant than prayer. Of course, you must pray, but even if you do not pray, you must still give worship. Therefore, God accomplishes the most important work through worship. That is giving his word. He gives each person the word that will serve as the most accurate and certain answer for them. This word is manifested as the fulfillment of Gen 3:15. You will see evidence that it will surely come to pass, that no one can stop it, and that it will surely conquer and triumph. To God, the word is most precious. The fact that he has given the word means that he has given everything.

Therefore, if we have received the word, we have received everything, and we need nothing else. It is the complete answer. Sometimes, God gives us a word that encompasses our entire life. In such cases, even if we simply remain still, that word becomes a covenant for our entire life. Amazing miracles unfold throughout our entire lives. Ultimately, what God accomplishes through the form of worship is a movement of the word. This is why Apostle Paul commanded it so sternly. When we restore this worship and this word movement, our lives will naturally conquer curses, disasters, and fate. When an individual does this, their personal life is transformed; when a family does this, the fate and cures of that family and lineage are shattered. May you experience the grace that brings the answer.

1. Consider Jesus
    1) He tells us to consider deeply on Christ our Lord. Verse 1: "Therefore, holy brothers, you who share in a heavenly calling…" Seeing our weakness, he calls us "holy brothers and sisters who share in the heavenly calling". He tells us to consider deeply on Christ our Lord Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession of faith.
    2) I suppose this means we should take a moment to reflect on his many deeds, his death, and the blood of his promise. It is a call to consider what the curse we bore was and how we were delivered from it. It is a call to reflect on the despair and emptiness we felt while enduring those hardships.
    3) Everyone else is laughing, chatting, and going about their business so happily - why have I ended up like this? How can I get out of here, where I'm trapped and unable to move? If I talk to someone, will they give me an answer? Where should I go to find a solution? What on earth is going on? Is it even possible that I've lost my mind?
    4) Countless thoughts came and went, but the outcome remained the same. While I was in a panic over the fact that I was going to die, the universe just kept on turning, indifferent, with a gentle hum. I stared blankly at the flowers blooming by the roadside for quite a while and thought, 'You're so lucky. Even if you die this fall, won't you bloom again next spring? But I'm different. When I die, that's the end. There's no coming back for me. What am I supposed to do about this? What's the answer?'

5) A fate and curse from which no one can help me and for which I have no answer - yet the Lord Jesus Christ rescued me from it all. I urge you to take a moment to reflect on this wonderful name and his grace. Everyone faces difficulties.
6) If it weren't for the wonderful Lord Christ, how would I be living right now? If I hadn't had God's grace and hadn't known faith, what would have become of my life? It's a terrible thought, but all these hardships were part of God's calling.
7) And so, now I am dreaming of world evangelization, holding fast to the promise of reaching the farthest corners of South America, and seeking disciples. Thankfully, I am receiving the love of the church, and together with the church, we are praying for this movement. It's a world difference. It's a complete transformation. I urge you to experience this Christ for yourselves and give it some thought.
8) The three offices provide the most accurate explanation of what the Lord has done for us through his death and the shedding of his blood. If we reflect on each one specifically, today's message will become our response. We must use these three offices to confront our own problems and bear witness to them in order to save others.
9) This opens my eyes and helps me come to know Christ more deeply. There was a saying that states "knowing the gospel but not knowing the field", which means that the living gospel is not being lived out properly. The gospel is what allows us to experience the invisible God in a way that is visible to the eye.
10) For this reason, God continues to give us his word even today. As we see fulfillment of his word, our eyes will be opened to the gospel, and we will deeply consider Jesus. What is original sin? Is there truly such a thing as destiny for human beings? Do demons really exist? Is Satan truly at work even now? Are all problems truly spiritual in nature?
11) These are questions that allow us to see the gospel in a concrete, realistic, and tangible way, and they provide content that enables us to experience and consider Jesus in a realistic way. Once you understand the cause, then the answer becomes clear. Understanding the cause reveals the content and direction of what you need to do. That is why the Bible is such an important book.
12) Nowhere other than the Bible speaks of original sin. Therefore, there is no answer outside the Bible. Nowhere other than the Bible speaks of human destiny. Only the Bible speaks of demons and Satan. There may be books that simply mention their existence. However, there is no book that explains that Satan is the cause of all problems, that demons are still at work today, and that mental illness, drug abuse, and suicide are all spiritual problems caused by their activity.
13) There is truly no other place other than the Bible that tells us that the only way to defeat this is through the precious blood of Christ. The answer is Christ. And it is written in the Bible. Therefore, we must receive the word of God and live according to it so that the head of Satan may be crushed and we may enjoy freedom. I hope you will become a person of worship who receives the word every time you give worship.
14) The answer is Christ. The word is the sword that puts that answer into practice. Since Satan is the cause, we need a sword - the sword of the Holy Spirit. I pray that we may all receive and enjoy the blessing of this weapon today. May it be with every family, every business, and every field.
